

5 Mine Deaths Accident, Jury Finds At Probe

W. Thomas, of the attorney general's department, who recently sat in the Northern inquiry, took the evidence.

SUPERVISOR TESTIFIES

Mr. N. Moleky, mine supervisor for the coal company, was the first witness called. He presented blue prints of the actual workings involved. Dr. E. J. Roberts, coroner, told of the conditions of the deceased miners and the conditions of the mine. He also presented evidence of the deceased miners' work habits. Mr. E. Coupland, mine manager, confirmed Liebert's report and told of examining the mine conditions. He was found to be insufficient to fill the job.

Nothing unusual had been found by P. B. St. John, a regular mine worker, who took them into number nine panel, where there was no moisture apparent. Numbers 2, 3 and 4 were not touched but nothing abnormal was found. This was also corroborated by Fire Boss Stewart Douglas, Jr., of the previous shift, when questioned as to moisture conditions.

WORKED ABOVE SCENE

Thomas Mason was working with partner Harry Tyson at No. 6 battery, above the scene of the accident, a fact which was not known. Hearing an unusual noise, something different to anything he had ever heard underground, he and Tyson stopped work and began looking around. Tyson said that their air had been cut off, presumably by blocked airways, and remembering what Fire Boss John Logan had always cautioned them to do, they dropped down number

A main angle and kept on going till they hit the counter where some of the haulage men were.

Mason stated that there had been nothing abnormal previous to the noise. They both told of Logan making three trips up to where they had been working previous to the accident, just to see that everything was all right. Tyson stated he had nothing to add to Mason's evidence.

Niko Kapuscinski, stated that after finishing his lunch, he emptied the coal chute and left the mine. He was walking back to the house when he heard a loud noise. He went back to the mine and found the air had been cut off. He and Tyson went back to the mine and found the air had been cut off.

ENTRY BLOCKED

Finding this blocked, he came to the doors and after pulling his way through the first and second doors without seeing anyone he went through the third door and saw some lights. He stated the only warning was a rush of air seconds before he hit his location and the counter, causing them to react and open it and just managed to get through. He warned others of the danger, cautioning them against bringing out any more coal. This action, played right to the rear for a hundred feet.

REDS STIFFEN

The British view appears to be that the Russian resistance is stiffening on all fronts, but there can be no doubt that the position is desperate on the Russian left flank.

It seems inevitable that many Russian prisoners must be taken, and the whole area comprising the Kuban Valley and the Malsok oil fields yielded to the invader.

The tenacity of the Russian defenders, first at Kuchinka and now at Krasnodar has been enough to permit the withdrawal of most of the Russian forces occupying the coastal area of the Sea of Azov to the Kuban River line.

STIFF MOUNTAIN BARRIER

A glance at the accompanying map, however, will show that a general withdrawal of Russian forces behind the Kuban River line will uncover the Taman Peninsula leading to the Straits of Kerch and permit the free influx of Axis troops from the Crimea against the Straits of Kerch to the Caucasus.

It has already been reported that the Germans have brought down a number of flat-bottomed boats across the Black Sea, probably from the Danube, to their troops across the Straits.

German units around Malsok have reached a military position in the foothills of the Caucasus at the terminus of the railway line running through the mountains to the Black Sea coast at Sukhumi.

The episode at Cherkassk on the road to Grozny indicates that the Russian Army of the South-Caucasus has been moved up to the northern ranges, and the Germans may find great difficulties in their advance.

SUGGEST GERMAN ADVANCEMENT

There is something odd about the descriptions of the battle yesterday of infantry units and German troops burning everything that stood in the way of their advance. It is not a military policy to destroy anything habitable, edible or useful in territory won from the enemy, if you expect to hold it.

If the reports be true, and if the Germans have been finishing the Russian work of demolition for some time, it is because they do not intend to stay there themselves.

This is hard to believe, although it does coincide with a statement attributed to a neutral official in Ankara that the Germans were about to complete their offensive operations, prepare their line for winter defense and withdraw their assault force to other fronts.

This report should be regarded skeptically, though there may be something in it. It was from the

Wage Scale-Tax Table

Lists Full Amount Of Payments In September

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—(CP)—Here are comprehensive extracts from National Revenue Department tables showing how much employers will deduct from Canadians' weekly or monthly pay checks for income tax payments, starting with the first pay period in September.

Deductions for alternative savings like life insurance premiums and mortgage principal payments may be made from the savings portion (SP) of the total tax (TT) but in no case may the deductions be greater than the amount of the savings portion.

The deductions from the cheques of persons paid every two weeks will be double the amount of the corresponding weekly deduction. Those paid twice a month will have deducted an amount equal to half the corresponding monthly deduction.

Tables Mailed To Employers

The tables were made public today by the Income Tax Division of the Department of National Revenue. The full tables—of which the following are comprehensive extracts—are being mailed to employers across Canada.

Heavy Crop Of Berries Ready In Rocky Area

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE—Wild berries are one of the best crops in years. If the country roads will ever be dry enough to get to the patches, Raspberries are ripe now, and they have been badly damaged by hail and wind storms.

Blueberries that promise an excellent crop, need not dry weather to ripen. Small boys walk to the patches close to town and pick for sale to buy tea books for the opening of school. The saskatoon crop is good, but it is raspberries, blueberries and cranberries that grow best in the high altitude.

In other years, many came in from outside parties to pick blueberries, some for their own use, others for sale. College students used to make a good part of their college expenses this way, but few are expected this season, with gasoline and tire restrictions, and more other work to be had elsewhere.

Alberta District News In Brief

John L. Haggerty Dies At Dorelle

FERINTOSH—John Lee Haggerty, 38, who came to Dorelle in 1913, died recently and was buried in the family plot in Dorelle cemetery Wednesday. The funeral was held in the Dorelle church, Rev. Victor A. Lindgren and Rev. Harry Gardner officiating. He leaves his widow, the former Adomiet, with whom he married in 1913, two children, Marian and Lois, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Haggerty, four sisters—Mrs. George Pringle, Rimbey; Mrs. Fredrick Schuster, Detroit; Mrs. Harold Williams, Ferintosh; seven brothers—George, Detroit; Irvin, in the United States Army; Del, Duhamel, Alberta; Wilfred, James, Arthur and Albert, all of Dorelle.

The recent high winds and driving rain has flattened much of the crops and some wheat in the Ferintosh district. During the storm, lightning killed a horse owned by Oliver Sims. Lightning was seen to hit his field and run

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

As time was processes, and intensified material production more and more becomes an integrated part of the gargantuan effort that must be made by all before victory can be achieved, music takes its place as an increasingly important factor in the general scheme of things.

With an ever-growing appreciation of the value of music in the building and maintenance of morale, the authorities are employing it to advantage.

Not only in Great Britain, but in the United States, music is being produced in industrial and war production work.

Intermittent music, which was conducted as an association of music merchants, of seven eastern U.S. plants that use music as a morale builder. The resulting record reaches the same conclusion as a similar document filed after a survey by the British Broadcasting Corporation, on music in English plants.

It is a tribute to music that both reports find it improves both the work and the spirits of employees. But, both reports emphasize that the music must be appropriate. American experience confirms the English conclusions that music and vocal music are unsuitable.

Familiar melodies, and light songs are the most helpful. It is also found in both reports that intermittent music is better than continuous music, and that great care should be taken to see that the volume of the music is right for the type of work being done.

The American report declares that "Since these studies in various levels of noise become accustomed to the noise and can hear music over it, music is even practical in plants where noise levels are comparatively high." It has been proven that at one powerful plant making large industrial machinery, intermittent music cut through the noise of power milling machines.

Lacy Monroe, New York soprano, when in Edmonton, listened and heard frequently on the air with a popular program, has been in the community sings in various sections of the North American continent. Her experience has impelled her to some interesting conclusions. She finds that the quality of the singing in the different communities, varies directly with the extent that the audience is participating in the war. The more the audience is connected with the war effort, the more freely and better they sing.

Soldiers, for instance, she says, sing better than civilians and "furling from an experience in London, Canada, who have been in the war longer, sing better than Americans."

Mona Pauline, Edmonton born soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera Association, who is acknowledged to the stage of the world's leading opera house, has won an annual open competition in which the largest number of votes in his history participated, has been busy singing in New York. Last Sunday she was the soloist with a symphony orchestra, conducted by Howard Hanson. Incidentally, the program, which is designed as a substitute for the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra when that organization is off the air for the summer, is carried by the CBC, but is not permitted to come into this city. It is carried so far as the CBC station at Watrous, but that station is scarcely even audible here in the daylight hours. It seems a pity that with three radio stations in this city, none carries such an outstanding program.

Last Tuesday night, Miss Pauline appeared on a program, Vera Brodsky, pianist and David Manakovitz, violinist. Miss Pauline sang at the Met last season for the first time. She acquitted herself creditably and appears headed for

JEAN BRASCHUK, well known city singer, who, it is expected, will be cast in one of the leading roles in the Edmonton Civic Opera Society's fall production of Leslie Stuart's musical comedy, "Florodora."

A firmly-entrenched position in the affections of New York music-lovers.

Ignor Stravinsky, the mighty Russian composer, has had his ups and downs in music. Some of his greatest successes have been achieved in writing ballets. But he has been given an honour, he probably never sought and for which he never composed any music. He has been immortalized in the greatest song on earth, "The Ringing Bells" by the Russian composer, which will be remembered as having played here just three years ago.

Most things these days are going to the dogs, but Stravinsky apparently is being fed to the elephants.

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(BUP)—Commissioner Kenevas Mountain Landis, he of the famous white hair, had better get his pitching arm in shape, for he'll probably have to "throw the book" at the players in this year's world series, potentially the bitterest classic in baseball history.

The fall extravaganza is still about six weeks away but there's little doubt that the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers will face each other for a show-down, with both teams a head of the field. Today the two clubs, at odds over Mickey Owen's missed third strike last October, are heating up on one of the game's fastest-growing feuds.

Both teams still consider last year's an unsatisfactory season. The Yankees' record is a disappointment because of the complete lack of the entire year. An especially bitter tale has been left with the Yankees by the loss of the pitcher, who wanted to win last October but now is humbled by a dogged defense in the American league.

Remember what tension rippled through the last series when pitcher Whit Wyatt of the Dodgers and outfielder Joe Mauer of the Yankees exchanged blows, over, and over, "bean-ball" batted across by the Brooklyn fencer. But in mind that the incident involved the comparatively mild-mannered veteran Wyatt and the definitely even-tempered Mauer. Then you have a hint of what is in the offing.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
IT'S only natural, of course, that the Yankees' conservative, manager, Joe McCarthy, the tight-lipped pitcher, and the Dodgers' manager, E. J. Connelley, the tight-lipped pitcher, should clash. But now their natural feud have been fanned to a red-hot intensity by a clash in current pitching.

The Yankees have scheduled a program with the Senators at the Bronx ball park on Sunday, the benefit of Army and Navy relief, preparing to go all out to make the American league's pitcher, a noteworthy game. But, unfortunately, the Dodgers' pitcher, are playing a doubleheader at Ebbets Field on the same date.

Jawling the charity efforts of the service, since the Dodgers and Giants alone in two games have poured about $100,000 into the funds. The Yankees had hoped their twin bill with Washington would wipe away any traces of a fortunate defeat and almost to a mad, the club's desire that the Dodgers-Giants game should be switched in order not to attract attendance in the Bronx.

"BEAN BALL" REACTION
THE Dodgers already have become one of the most unpopular clubs in their own town, being accused of using "dusters" and "bean-balls." Now, if the violations become in a recent game, the Dodgers' pitcher, who wanted to win last October but now is humbled by a dogged defense in the American league.

Says Angott Tough

Ray Robinson Undoubtedly An Imposing Ring Figure

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Ray Robinson, a gum-chewing, jitter-bugging Harlemite, whose penchant for five is second only to his ability to jolt, was soaking his left mitt in a bucket of ice water after feeling off on lightweight champion Sammy Angott in Madison Square Garden.

"Funny thing," mused the lanky Negro, "I hurt the middle knuckle of my left hand fighting Angott a year ago in Philadelphia. It bothered me ever since. People don't say that fellow enough credit. He's tough and he makes you look bad. He can take a punch and he's game. The guy's a real champion."

Brother Robinson may be right and he simply may be polite, but after the fourth round of the mix-up Angott looked like anything but a champion. Robinson hit him with everything but Mike Jacobs' store teeth. Sammy looked as worn out as a Harry Balogh adjective.

"No ball of fire with the Jacobs. He's a punch and he's game. The guy's a real champion." Robinson hit him with everything but Mike Jacobs' store teeth. Sammy looked as worn out as a Harry Balogh adjective.

JENKINS EASY
His fight with Lew Jenkins which gave him undisputed possession of the lightweight title, was a rank stinker. Jenkins hasn't even been able to lick bar flies, and he showed little inclination to do anything but hug Angott. Bob Mont-

Stenographers, Clerks Become R.C.A.F. Recruits

As Change-Over Is Made

Stenographers and clerks in the office of No. 3 recruiting centre, R.C.A.F., in Edmonton, will be able to give real first-hand information about the air force from now on. For they're in the air force now.

I Saw Today

JEAN COOK

Friday afternoon, five winsome ladies, who have been pounding typewriters and filing documents as civilian employees for a long time, were sworn in as airwomen in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. Two other members of the staff will be sworn in later. One young lady is on vacation and the other had her enlistment postponed for a few weeks because of personal reasons.

The five who took the oath to serve as airwomen Friday, are all long-term employees of the recruiting centre. They are: Alice Gallimore, 9152 85 avenue; Jean Laing, 10412 83 avenue; Winifred Clark, 10412 125 street; Frances M. Seager, 10402 10 avenue; and Betty Boston, 10303 122 street. Miss Peggy Browne and Miss Lillian Plawky will be enlisted later.

Fit-Lt. A. M. Davidson, second in command at No. 3 recruiting centre, and acting officer representing the air force, presided at the ceremony. The girls, who were sworn in at the office of the recruiting centre, are all long-term employees of the recruiting centre. They are: Alice Gallimore, 9152 85 avenue; Jean Laing, 10412 83 avenue; Winifred Clark, 10412 125 street; Frances M. Seager, 10402 10 avenue; and Betty Boston, 10303 122 street. Miss Peggy Browne and Miss Lillian Plawky will be enlisted later.

Officers In New Edmonton Active Unit

LT.-COL. H. B. JAMIESON      CAPT. E. H. STUTCHBURY
 There have been 21 officers named for the staff of the Fusiliers Battalion, (C.A.I.), now concentrating at Sarcee camp. Thirteen of the officers have been serving with the Reserve Unit, Lt. Col. Jamieson, commanding officer, and Capt. Stutchbury, adjutant, have both been on permanent duty since early in 1940.

Fusiliers Battalion Includes Many City Officers On Strength

Names of well known Edmonton residents figure prominently in the staff of 21 officers appointed to date for service with the newly-organized 3rd Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, (C.A.I.), under the command of Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson.

Military Orders

Finger Prints Aid In Capture Store Burglar

Finger-printing as a means of detecting criminals proved its value in bringing to custody Glen Baker, former city taxi driver, who was sentenced to 18 months in jail for the theft of a car before Police Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., Saturday.

Baker was charged with the theft of a 1934 Buick sedan, which was parked in front of the Strathcona Hotel, on the corner of 10th and 10th street, on the night of the 12th inst. The car was found in a rear window in broad daylight last Sunday and sold $25 worth of cigarettes.

With no other clues to work on, Constable J. L. T. King, R.C.M.P., of the Evansburg detachment, carefully examined the bits of glass that had been found on the floor of the car. The fragments of glass that were removed from the car were found to be the same as those found on the car.

CHECK ARRIVALS

He then checked arrivals at the Beach to find that Baker with two companions arrived at the beach on the 12th inst. The three visitors volunteered for finger-printing at the request of the constable, who later found that the fingerprints of Baker were identical to those of Baker's fingerprints.

Baker was arrested immediately and brought to Edmonton, where he pleaded guilty to the charge of theft of a car. He was sentenced to 18 months in jail for the theft of a car.

THE QUESTION
 Will Japan stab Russia in the back?

THE ANSWERS
JACK CAMPBELL, caretaker: Almost as much importance is given to the question of Russia's second front in Europe, and to the possibilities of an attack on Russia by Japan, as is given to the momentous events transpiring on the Solomons Islands and in the Caucasus. It would not surprise me in the least if the Russian people of Nippon send a delegation to assure the Russians of Japan's peaceful intentions, and follow up the mission with a full scale attack on Siberia.

TOMMY NAIRN, clerk: The sudden reversal of interest shown by Japan during the last few months in her northern sphere would indicate that an attack on Russia is being planned. The Chinese have reported a heavy and steady influx of fresh Japanese troops into Manchukuo. They may be there for a holiday, but my guess is that the invasion of Siberia is planned.

Industry Is Imperilled By Estimated Shortage Of 1,500 Mine Workers

Recruiting and drafting of coal miners for military service would be discontinued in view of the alarming shortage of mine labor in the province.

This was one of four recommendations made at a meeting called here Friday by Hon. N. E. Tanner, provincial minister of lands and mines, to consider the mine labor shortage. Representatives of the federal and provincial governments, coal operators and District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America attended the meeting, which Mr. Tanner was chairman.

At the close of the conference Mr. Tanner told delegates the provincial government would make a further study of the situation and make appropriate representations to the authorities at Ottawa.

Delegates of the following recommendations which they suggested should be made to Ottawa:

- 1-That recruiting and drafting of coal miners for military service be discontinued.
- 2-That mine labor be encouraged to continue in their line of work.
- 3-That boys be allowed to work at a lower age, that is, at the age of 16 years above ground and 17 years below ground.
- 4-That some action be taken to check the increasing tendency to desertion, that is, that men be encouraged to remain in the labor force.

Mail Bag ... Brings News Of South Africa

There is nothing like the thrill of receiving mail from far off places. Especially if you are a stamp collector, do the little colored bits of paper on the envelope make your soul tingle.

Let us suppose, of course, have cut off any correspondence in the Nazi-occupied countries, but there are still interesting activities of Canadian youth.

Today's mail bag brings several letters from far off South Africa. Miss Vida Andry, care of Hansons, 16 Derby Hill, Cape Coast, Gold Coast, British West Africa, is interested in reading, collecting post cards, and knitting.

Robert A. Odom, 16 of 10 Tantr road, Cape Coast, Gold Coast, British West Africa, likes scouting, football, hockey, collecting views.

Miss Augusta Buckle, 16, care of Hansons, 16 Derby Hill, Cape Coast, Gold Coast, British West Africa, likes corresponding, dancing, racing and basketball.

Frederick E. Fay, 16, of an unknown street, Cape Coast, British West Africa, is interested in football, swimming, and corresponding.

Miss Doris, 14, of 10 Tantr road, British West Africa, is interested in knitting, baseball and dancing.

Arlene Johnston, 312 King's Road, Victoria, B.C., is a brown hair and eyes, five ft. one in, would like a pen pal, 15 to 18 years, from anywhere.

Evlin Shannon, Gen. Del. Kimberley, B.C., would like to pen pals, boys and girls, 15 to 18 years, from anywhere. He likes collecting pictures of movie stars.

Elli Bagnatos, Box 17, Port Elizabeth, B.C., 11, in grade 8, would like pen pals, boys and girls, from anywhere. Likes: drawing, cycling, swimming, singing and stamp collecting, and dancing.

Alice Semeluk, R.R. No. 2, Langley, B.C., would like to pen pals, boys and girls, from anywhere, between 12 and 18 years. Hobbies: horseback riding, bike riding, collecting pictures of ships.

Daisy Winifred Allen, 13 Heathville Ave., Hounslow, Middlesex, England, 44, woman, would like to correspond with Canadian women exchange views.

Norma Nichols, "Coniagis Ranch," c/o Mrs. Tetheway, Haines, B.C., 16, five ft. five in, fair hair, blue eyes, would like pen pals, boys and girls, between 16 and 19 years, from anywhere. Hobbies: horseback riding, all outdoor sports. Will exchange snapshots.

BOOKSHELF
Books For Children in Edmonton Public Library

Arm, by Irwin S. Cobb. Arm was an Arabian horse who was born on a big farm in California. The story of his childhood and school days is told, and illustrated with many full-page pictures.

Francis and Gai, by Margery Blum. Francis and Gai are two little mice who live in a forest. The adventures of these two mice are told in a story which is both interesting and amusing.

The Little Engine That Could, by Watty Piper. A terrible thing happened to a little train engine. It was stuck in a hole and could not get out. A story of how another train came to the rescue and saved the little engine.

Major and the Kittens, by Helen H. Major. Major was a very old cat who lived in a house. He had two kittens who were very mischievous. A story of how Major and his kittens lived.

Sambo and the Twins, by Helen H. Sambo. Sambo was a very old dog who lived in a house. He had two twins who were very mischievous. A story of how Sambo and his twins lived.

The Snowman, by Jack London. A story of a snowman who was made by a boy. The snowman was very happy and played with the children. A story of how the snowman lived.

The Story of Casey, Jr., by Wall Emerson. Casey, Jr. was a very old dog who lived in a house. He had two sons who were very mischievous. A story of how Casey, Jr. and his sons lived.

This Canada of Ours, by Mary Morrison Stone. A story of the life of a Canadian boy. The boy was very happy and played with his friends. A story of how the boy lived.

I have several Boy Scouts in my Home Guard platoon, and I find they have come to me very ready to be trained, due to their having been Scouts.—Lord Hampton.

Helpful Hints For Camera Enthusiasts

When you first own a camera, you probably line up the family and take their pictures. Then after securing snapshots of your pets and a few other subjects, you probably put the camera away, waiting for something interesting to turn up so you can photograph it. If you want to get real and continuous enjoyment from your camera, here are a few hints.

An intriguing sideline is to take pictures of the most important newspaper headlines of the month. While reading through the papers, save the front pages and other headlines that interest you most. At the end of the month, pick out those that you want to photograph. After attaching a portrait attachment to the camera, mount the headlines on a sheet of white paper or any other surface for a background. It is best to take the pictures in the morning, though you can take it inside by using special equipment. The pictures are then mounted on a scrapbook according to the dates.

Another camera hobby is to collect pictures of humorous tombstones. Believe it or not, some tombstones bear very amusing inscriptions intentional or otherwise.

Here is one: "Beneath this stone a lump of clay lies Uncle Peter Daniels. Who too early in the month of May took off his wife's hair."

The quotation is authentic. By looking around your neighborhood you may see some similar or equally funny epigrams.

Another intriguing hobby is to take pictures of old and historic places. Some people have sought out old graveyards, looking for pictures of the different kinds of markers. One boy found that the ancient graves of the olden times were very interesting and took pictures of them.

AERIAL PICTURES
Another idea you like to take aerial pictures without going up in an airplane. Well, you can by attaching your camera to a kite.

Use a small camera that does not weigh much. Attach it to a string that is held by a person on the ground. The string is held by a person on the ground. The string is held by a person on the ground.

Young People Of The Allied Nations Do Their Part For The War Effort ...

H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth was among the 2000 British sixteen-year-olds who registered during the youth registration scheme. Wearing the uniform of a Girl Guide, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor signed her name at a labor exchange.

Students at Isaac E. Young High School, a technical, N.E. B.C., are learning to operate a telephone switchboard. Others too are learning to be useful by doing and learning new things.

An inspiring example of patriotism was set by one Edmonton youth recently who was told if he collected 20 odd old tires himself he would have collected enough salvagable rubber to make connections for a bomber. The child was determined that he would give to have a bomber ... and believe it or not he had the tires within a few days.

Armed with a wagon and his sturdy legs, one small Edmontonian was hunting up and down for rubber and tubes and glass and all the things that are being salvaged. Asked if he was collecting the goods for the salvager the child shook his head and murmured "It's for the war."

Two Girl Scout members of the "White" unit of Greenwood, C., are learning to operate a telephone switchboard. Others too are learning to be useful by doing and learning new things.

LUCKY PENNY

By GLORIA KAYE

CHAPTER IN
ONE day, after Penny had returned to the Courier office from one of her frequent visits to the mills, she found Jim deep in conversation with a visitor. He was tall, distinguished-looking, and a ready smile waited on his lips.

"Hello, Penny," Jim welcomed "May I present Lou MacDonald, head of the County Humane Society. Lou, this is Penny Kilmartin, our society editor."

"I've heard a great deal about you, Miss Kilmartin," MacDonald said. "I'd like to compliment you on your series of articles on the Kirk Mills. They're great."

"Thanks," said Penny. "I'm glad to know I have at least one person here who's a little story you might like to handle," said Jim. "There's some good material in this report of Humane Society activities."

"It isn't exactly pleasant," MacDonald warned. "In fact, it's rather discouraging."

Penny studied the figures. Here, in cold type, was a tragic story of families deserted, children who would have faced starvation if the Humane Society had not helped them.

"Kirktown has the worst record in the county," Penny observed. "Yes, unfortunately that's true," MacDonald admitted.

"There are some men who can't resist the temptation of any other temptations that come their way. They suffer, but those who really are hurt are their wives and children. We do our best to find new interests for these men and to install in them a sense of responsibility."

Penny listened in fascination to his stories of the strange cases that his office handled. She had never realized such situations existed. When he had finished, she knew her pen had been crisscrossing to write against the Castro gang.

"I have an idea," Penny said. "I can finish this article on the business in a big hurry. Will you help?"

"Will we help?" Jim echoed. "I can't say," MacDonald cautioned. "For one thing, the boys at City Hall are working every glove with the gang. Castro spends plenty of money at each election to make sure the right men get in."

"Then," said Penny, "we'll get the City Hall gang out, too. We'll put men in office who'll enforce the laws and who'll run this bunch of lawless gamblers out of town."

"I'd give a year's salary to see the Castro gang wiped out," MacDonald said. "It's not pleasant to have to look at all the misery they've caused."

"If you'll both work with me," Penny said, "you'll soon see some action."

Count on me, MacDonald assured. Her hands with Penny as he rose to his feet. "It's been a pleasure to see you two. Just give me a ring whenever you're ready."

"Thanks for dropping in," Jim said. "We'll keep in touch with you."

Penny was thankful for Jim's invitation to dinner. A steak at Pietro's would hit the spot.

All through dinner, Penny was silent. Her thoughts were on a plan that was daring, and dangerous. It might fail. She decided to say nothing about it to Jim until she had worked out all the details.

"I'd like to come back to the office tonight, Jim. I've got a lot of work to do," she said.

"Fine. You can keep me company," Jim said. "I'll be glad to see you just yet, Jim," she said. "I want to reserve a place of advertising space in the Courier, and a spot on the front page. I'm not going to pay a thing, but I'll be a financial delight."

"You'll just have to trust me to pay for the space," Penny said. "Your credit's good," he said. "Provided you can give me two or three cents, both of them millionaires."

"I could," said Penny. "But I can't. And you can't. It's a trap, it's a trap, it's a trap. It's for a circular you sent to print when I read it."

"Okay, Penny. This is a little ahead of time," Jim asked. "You're the big gun behind the campaign," she told him. "Without you, I couldn't do a thing. Will you, in fact, I couldn't be here."

"Without you," Jim said, sincerely, "being here wouldn't be worthwhile."

"Thanks, pal," she murmured. "And now that you've made your pretty little speech, let's head for home."

The street was bathed in moonlight. Walking beside Jim, Penny felt pleasantly of many things. At her door, Jim pressed Penny's hand in his own.

"Her lips were inviting. He kissed her, tenderly."

"Good night, Penny," he whispered. She watched him as he walked jauntily back toward the foot of the hill. His kiss would be another hummer to treasure forever.

Penny found Midge in bed, reading. "Hello, then," her roommate called cheerfully. "This is a fine time to be coming home. I know. You were detained at the office. You'd better think up a better excuse than that."

Penny laughed. "My excuse is a lot more exciting than that. I've seen James my thinking cap for a change. I really have news tonight."

"I'll be in a minute," the answerer said. "Wait till I get comfortable."

Penny left out the incident concerning the bride Jim had refused. She showed over the news of the mid-social news of the day. She talked at length about MacDonald and the Humane Society report.

Then Penny told Midge of her plan to rid Kirktown of its criminal element. Midge sat upright in bed, staring in open-eyed wonder as Penny excitedly outlined her scheme.

"Careful," Midge warned. "You're playing with TNT." Then she said as if talking to herself, "I wonder. It might work at that."

"My plan must be a single word to anyone. We've got to keep this plan absolutely secret, or it will boom, she cautioned."

"Check," said Midge. How about turning the lights out, Penny? We'd both better get to sleep."

Penny couldn't close her eyes. She looked up at the shadows on the ceiling, thinking about Jim, about the past, and mostly about the future.

What happened in the next 20 seconds chased all other thoughts from her mind. A rumble that descended in a roar shook the house, almost tumbling them from their beds.

Up the hill from the valley rolled a blast that echoed like thunder. Before Penny slipped into a robe and raced to the door, she had guessed what had happened. There was no mistaking the direction from which the flames shot upward. She knew this was the fulfillment of Castro's threat.

Jim had rounded the corner, walking toward the Courier office. Had he been there when the bomb exploded? Terror struck at Penny's heart.

"Jim," she cried as she raced out. "Oh, Jim!"

Fighting Men are Guests of Honor at Every Citizens' Committee in Canada Volunteers Plan National Network of "Homes" for Soldiers, Sailors, Fliers

The government is urging communities to form Citizens' Committees to coordinate services for troops on leave. This Toronto depot sends out 100,000 magazines monthly.

In game room of Mrs. M. T. Elliott's Toronto home two airmen shoot snooker with a pretty blonde. Wholesome recreation in a homelike atmosphere for troops away from camp is the aim of the Citizens' Committee which eagerly accepts Mrs. Elliott's offer to entertain troops for weekend. Note the Norwegian flag on wall.

Provision of wholesome meals at cost to men away from camp is important Citizens' Committee work. Plans to finance essential expenses from community salvage work.

Another Citizens' Committee activity is operation of checking depots at bus terminals and stations where men in uniform may leave their bags while on leave. Wives of Great War Veterans who staff this Toronto depot can also direct troops to centres where clean wholesome recreation is provided by joint effort.

Men from all services are welcome in hostels like this one in Toronto where homelike atmosphere is provided for troops on leave at little cost. All staff members are volunteers who co-operate with the Citizens' Committee in assuming a community responsibility in providing necessary recreation facilities.

In addition to recreational facilities this hostel in Toronto has 50 beds to accommodate troops on leave. Coordination of all war service activity within communities to avoid duplication and waste is object of Citizens' Committees.

In the same Toronto hostel volunteer worker washes dishes after meal. Citizens' Committee surveys needs, then provide facilities for entertainment of troops.

June Elliott helps entertain at her mother's home where often 14 men spend leave at no charge. Citizens' Committee refers thousands of servicemen to Toronto families who provide well-cooked meals, welcome homelike atmosphere.
